

This special report is joint project with American City Business Journals publications in four other cities — Houston, Pittsburgh, Dallas and San Antonio.

The leaders below — as well as those selected in the four other markets — will be featured in the special report in the Nov. 27 issue of the Denver Business Journal that will include more than 500 business leaders across multiple industries and states who are driving energy deals and making daily contributions to this booming industry.

A VIP reception honoring the professionals who were selected for the 2015 Who's Who in Energy list is slated for Dec. 3. Click here for details and to register.
